

Contact: Anthro Northwest
Twitter: @antronw
Telegram: @antronw
1-662-4ANTHRO
www.antronw.com

“Telephone Selected as a Guest of Honor for Anthro Northwest 2017”

Seattle, WA – January 13, 2017 – Ino, the performance artist behind the well-known character “Telephone,” has been selected as an Anthropomorphic Character Performer Guest of Honor for Anthro Northwest 2017. Ino is the creator of the “Dutch Angel Dragon” character species, the lead artist at Skypro Fursuits and an active philanthropist.

Telephone is an extremely recognizable character due to her creativity, performance and communication skills. What really is exceptional about her though, is her dedication to helping so many charities in need. Ino was very active raising money for the food drive in her local town (Payson, Ariz.), and also works with Child Crisis Arizona. At conventions, Telephone can often be seen with her donation bucket raising money for various non-profits. She has also donated many art pieces at auction to raise money for a multitude of causes.

Ino works full-time as a fursuit maker, but also creates classical art in both traditional and digital forms. In her free time she enjoys riding horses, drawing and teaching others how to make their own wearable works of art. At Anthro Northwest, in addition to being a guest of honor, Ino will be doing character performance, attending the patron’s dinner and hosting some panels.

Telephone

Ino

About Anthro Northwest:

Anthro Northwest is an anthropomorphic arts convention being held at the Renaissance Hotel in Seattle, Washington from November 9th to the 12th, 2017. Anthro Northwest is dedicated to the advancement of anthropomorphic art through workshops, panels, educational seminars, community activities and charitable giving. Anthro Northwest Charities is a federally recognized 501(c)(3) non-profit organization.

###